SUNDAY, JULY 25, 1869.

Valedictory.

The publication of the BRITISH COLUMBIAN newspaper ceases with the present issue. A struggle of a little over four months has sufficed to convince us of the inability or unwillingness of Victoria to support two Dailies. The attempt has involved considerable financial loss, and we retire from the unequal contest while yet in a position to do so without involving others in the consequences of failure. We thank our friends, forgive our enemies, and die in peace.

The Last Warning!

The declaration of a dying man is entitled to peculiar consideration. As life flickers in the socket, the anxious ear presses nearer and nearer still to catch the last faint whisper of ebbing existence. Why should not the last warning of a dying journalist sink deep into the heart of the reader? Most earnestly have we endeavoured, during the few months that we have been enabled to conduct this journal in Victoria, to arouse the public mind to a realizing sense of the situation and the great duty of the hour. We have reason to think that our humble endeavours have not been altogether in vain. The public mind has been aroused; the importance of the measures we have been advocating has met with very general acknowledgement. But it is not enough that the public mind has been aroused. It is not enough that there has been a general assent to certain principles. Faith without works is dead. Mere belief without practical development is worthless. Never an unreasoning, untimely Confederationist, we have from the first held it to be the destiny of British Columbia to form a part of the great British Empire of America. Circumstances now concur in indicating such a consummation as imminent. It will be true wisdom in the Colonists to assume that it is imminent, whether they like it or no! The really practical question to be considered now is, the terms. Not that we conceive the people of British Columbia to be in a position to lay down terms, and to say to Canada, "These are our terms; and if you can't grant these you can't have us!" To run away with any such notion would be foolish—might be fatal. But we do believe that by timely and united action the people of this Colony might secure the privilege of a Free Port on the seaboard and the early establishment of railway communication. The former we hold to be a local necessity—the latter a national necessity. In no other way can British Columbia attain any great degree of prosperity or power. In no other way can the Dominion hope to attain solidity or acquire political or commercial power and influence on the Pacific. In no other way can British Columbia hope to hold its own against surrounding progress. In no other way can the Government at Ottawa hope to prevent the absorption of this territory by the Great Republic by which it is sandwiched. These are, all of them, incontrovertible propositions; and the people most directly interested would do well to lose no time in placing them before the Home and Dominion authorities, in such a way that they cannot possibly be misunderstood. To this end let all party lines and petty differences be merged, and let a people hitherto too often divided, vacilating, and spasmodic, unite as one man in a strong effort, a long effort, and an effort all together. Such is the solemn and earnest advice—the last advice—of an expiring Journalist, with whom "the ruling passion"—a desire to see this Colony take its true position—is "strong in death."

THE WILLOWS.—The proprietor of the Willows has just completed a platform for dancing at their grounds, measuring 30x40 feet. It is built between two gigantic oaks, and perfectly shaded from the rays of the sun; and in another enormous tree are seats for the orchestra, raised about 10 feet from the ground. The whole structure is very creditable to the enterprising proprietor, and the public have only to visit the Willows, on the Cadboro Bay Road, to become satisfied that it is the pleasantest place near Victoria to enjoy onesself. *

The Canadian Cabinet.

The news which reaches us from Ottawa is something for which we were not altogether unprepared, although it may possibly not turn out to be quite correct. We have not been without repeated intimation, that although the Ministry had a strong following, yet several of its members were waxing refractory under the lead of Sir John. The growing popularity and influence of Sir G. E. Cartier would very naturally form an element in the combination of causes which may not unlikely culminate in the way intimated. It is just possible, too, that personal bitterness enters into the question. Most of our readers will recollect the C. B. and K. C. B. war of a couple of years ago. John A. McDonald was made a K. C. B., while a C. B. was offered to Cartier, Tilley, Galt, and McDougall. Cartier and Galt declined, the former indignantly refusing to accept a lower title than that bestowed upon McDonald. The upshot was that he got a higher, being created a Baronet! Although well concealed at the time, it was known that Cartier did not in his heart hold McDonald guiltless in the matter. He triumphed; but it did not follow that he would not watch a fitting opportunity for seeking quiet revenge. That opportunity may have come. It has been evident for some time that these two Knights did not work kindly together, and on several more recent occasions Cartier has lorded it over McDonald in such a way as to cause very general comment. Both are talented men, men who might well stand at the head of the affairs of a much greater country than Canada. Perhaps the country is not great enough to have them both in its Cabinet. Probably no public man ever equalled Sir John in the ability with which he has managed contending parties, and the tenacity with which he has retained his grasp of the reigns of power. For many years prior to Confederation, he kept his post, when frequently surrounded by fearful breakers. He guided the Confederation bark with a firm and steady hand through many a storm, and now that the great scheme with which his name must ever stand intimately associated draws so near completion there would be something positively melancholy in seeing the great chief step down from the pilot-house. Should, however, such really be the denouement, it is a consolation to know that there is such a man as Sir George E. Cartier to fill the place thus rendered vacant. The Government is altogether too strong to be appreciably affected by any readjustment of this kind.

OUTRAGE NEAR CORK.—About ten o,clock on the night of June 15, four men attacked the house of a gentleman named Grey, at Blackrock, near Cork. Mrs Grey saw them enter, and having obtained a revolver, went to the room in which her paralysed husband was sitting. Mrs Geey found a man presenting a revolver at her husband's head, and demanding arms. She handed Mr Grey the revolver, and as the man retreated Mr. Grey shot him in the groin. The others then made off, and the wounded man who is not expected to live, besought assistance. He was attended to by Mr. Grey's family, and proves to be a man named Campbell, a keeper at a neighbouring lunatic asylum.. The three others were arrested on the following day.

BRITISH NAVY.—We find by an official return just issued that "the flag which has braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze" is now carried by 275 ships of the Royal Navy, manned by more than 40,000 men; 2,611 guns are ready to open fire on our foes if need be—though, may such need never come should be the prayer of all. On the China station we have 29 vessels; North America and West Indies 23; in the Mediterranean, 17; and on the African coast, 14. At Portsmouth there are 20 ships with 114 guns, and at Devonport 13 ships carrying 285 guns. With a Channel squadron of eight vessels carrying 137 guns, and 11 ships with 135 guns not under orders, we are in a condition to fire a splendid salute to welcome any friendly visitor; and if not friendly, why—we could salute him too.

QUICK TIME.—Express goods have been received at the London House which left London in May. They consist of the new Windermere, Loch Lomond, Killarney, and Baden Costumes, woven in one piece; Trimmings and Buttons of latest styles; Bonnets and Hats as worn this summer in Paris; Ribbons; Japanese Silks, and fancy goods. *

GUNPOWDER.

Sporting, Rifle, Cannon, Mining & Blasting,

Fresh from the Mills of

THE CALIFORNIA POWDER WORKS.

Extract from Report of Committee of Judges on Class 5 in the Sixth Industrial Exhibition of the California Mechanics' Institute, 1868:

Your Committee did not subject to proof the samples of powder exhibited at the Fair, but went to the different magazines, and themselves selected samples from packages destined for the trade.

The various samples thus obtained, embracing Sporting, Cannon, Musket, and Blasting Powder, were subjected to divers proofs, the chief of which, and that upon which we most relied, was with the "Eprouvette" mortar, charged with one ounce of powder and a twenty-four pound ball.

After many days consumed in careful experiments—time which we freely bestowed, because of the great interest felt in the question both by the competing parties and the public—and after careful comparison of the results obtained, we found that all the powder submitted to test was of excellent quality. We also found that the superiority, on the whole, rested with the California Powder Works, and therefore recommend an award of a gold medal to that company, and a silver medal to the Pacific Powder Mills.

Signed, JOHN J. HALEY,

DIED.

At Esquimalt, July 23rd, Wm. C. Smith, aged 27 years, late of Over Darwen, Lancashire, England.

The Trip of the Wilson G. Hunt with the Hon. W. H. Seward and Party.

This steamer, having been engaged by the Hon. Mr. Blinn, of Seabeck, to take our distinguished visitor and his party up Puget Sound, left Victoria on Wednesday morning at 9 a.m., having on board the Hon. W. H. Seward, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Seward, Mr. A. Fitch, Mr. William Smith, A. W. Von Smith, Judge S. C. Hastings, Dr. Franklin, R. A., Governor Flanders, W. S. Dodge, Capt. Lawson, Consul Francis and family, Rev. T. Somerville and Mrs. Somerville, Hon. Marshall Blinn, a few of his friends, and a number of passengers.

The Hunt made Port Townsend at 1 o'clock and was received with a salute of 13 guns. A number of the citizens, headed by Messrs. O. F. Gerrish, Ed. Fowler, Dr. Calhoun, F. A. Wilson, Rufus Leighton, S. B. Hastings, D. C. H. Rothschild, J. G. Swan, and W. H. Taylor, immediately waited upon Mr. Seward, by whom they were courteously received. Judge Denison, C. E. Wood, Esq. Mr. Wilson, and others here joined the party. Mr. Seward having made a short address, they started up the magnificent sheet of water which opens into Washington Territory, calling at Port Ludlow to pick up Mr. Phinney, Capt. Whetmore and Capt. Reid. Further along they visited the mills of Pope, Talbot & Co., at Port Gamble, where they can turn out 60,000 feet of lember per day. Mr. Cyrus Walker, of the Messrs. Drew having joined in, they steamed up to Port Madison, where, owing to the illness of Mr. Meiggs, only a short stay was made. Seattle was reached about 8 p.m. A Committee, consisting of Messrs. Denny, Yesler, Atkins, Whitworth, and Mathias, waited upon Mr. Seward and requested him to stay and see the resources in the vicinity. He got off from making a speech by consenting to shake hands all round when he returned. At Steilacoom the Hunt moored till the morning tide, with which she entered Olympia at early dawn. The inhabitants were fully awake and the hills re-echoed with the report of guns. An arrangement had been made for a drive to the Falls of Tamwater, Lake Como, and the Chamberis Prairie; and for an address to the citizens in the Olympic Hall, which was delivered, after luncheon at the residence of Capt. Lawson. Leaving Olympia at 3, the return was made to Port Townsend at night, each spot along the route being confidently pointed out as the future city—the terminus of the Great Northern Railway, and reasons equally good given by the varied informants. One of these places, the New Jerusalem, had an extensive water frontage, but appeared, in the meantime, a city of pines. Starting at 5 on Friday morning from Port Townsend, the boat's course was directed right to Nanaimo, up through hosts of Islands, large and small, more beautiful and varied than the ancient Cyclades. It may be of significance to note that Mr. Seward was taken through the Rosario, or English channel. San Juan, when passed on the left, was attentively observed and well discussed. At Nanaimo, where the Active was waiting, they were received by Messrs. Spalding, Bates and Bryden, and visited the works of the Vancouver Coal Co. At dinner, on board the Hunt, Mr. Seward presided. He said those who had sailed together so pleasantly through these beautiful waters, were now to separate. They had seen lands waiting for people—forests that would soon ring with the axe—shores destined to be famous in shig-building. He would take the opportunity of proposing H. M. Queen Victoria, the sovereign lady of Great Britain. Dr. Franklyn proposed the President of the United States, acknowledged by Mr. Francis, who proposed Mr. Seward. A few other toasts were given. After dinner the transfer was made to the Active. The Hunt left Nanaimo at 4:30 a.m., yesterday morning, and arrived here at 9:30—having made the passage, 75 miles, in 5 hours!

EXECUTED.—Yesterday morning at 7 o'clock the sentence of death was executed upon the Indian, Itch-yst-atis, who was convicted of the murder of Mr. Robinson, on Salt Spring Island. The body, after death was pronounced to have taken place, was delivered up to his friends for burial, who conveyed it over to the Indian Reserve, and throughout the greater portion of the day a great wailing was kept up by the kindred and friends of the deceased. The body was interre on the reserve, after the custom of the natives.

CONFIRMATION OF ORDINANCES.—The following Ordinances, passed last session, have been canfirmed by the Queen:—

An Ordinaece to establish Banks for Savings.

An Ordinance to establis h a Volunteer Force.

An Ordinance respecting Indian Reserves.

An Ordinance to amend the County Court Ordinance 1867.

An Ordinance to enlarge and amend the Victoria Municipal Ordinance, 1867.

THE FIREMEN'S PIC-NIC:—As we predicted, the Firemen's pic-nic yesterday eclipsed anything of the kind ever before attempted here. At 1 o'clock the Firemen mustered in strong force, and, forming in procession, marched up Government street, and across James Bay, to Medina's Grove, headed by the Volunteer band. The arrangements in the Grove were of the most elaborate and complete character, reflecting the greatest credit upon the Committee of Management. For several hours the road presented one continuous stream of carriages, omnibuses, and foot-passengers, causing one to wonder where all the people came from. Not the least striking feature on the grounds was the platform, 50x80 feet, prepared for dancing. Nor was it the least attractive. Games and athletic sports were engaged in, the Mayor himself setting the example, by putting the heavy stone, in doing which, however, he put himself flat on his back, to the great amusement of on-lookers. Early resort was had to the platform, the ball being opened by the officers of the Fire Department, His Honor the Administrator of the Government, His Honor Chief Justice Needham, Miss Needham, Acting Colonial Secretary Good, a number of Naval officers, and many other persons of distinction. Dancing was kept up with great spirit during the afternoon and evening, and was continued till midnight. The scene presented at night was certainly enchanting. The entire grove was illuminated by means of Chinese lanterns, many of them suspended from the overhaning branches of the trees, throwing over the whole scene a truly grand and almost Oriental charm. The effect of all this, accompanied by dancing to the excellent music of the band, was peculiarly attractive. We congratulate the Firemen upon the brilliant success of their annual pic-nic.

THE WESTERN STAR has "riz," and shines forth from Steilacoom. Here is a ray of its brilliant light:—

"This moment we are born again, we now become free to think, free to act, free to speak, free to indite and indict, free to judge, and free to sentence, and so help us heaven we shall cherish, foster, maintain, and protect, for our time, at least, that remnant of a freeman's legacy. The Star of the west shines like diamonds in the noon day sun, so shines the Western Star, Why? Because the great thought underlieing our country's constitutional charter is independence, and "in independence and God we trust." We shall scorch and singe democracy, lacerate and not paliate republicanism, advocate legitimate suffrage for women, love Ireland and demand that the church prove its faith by its works. Our country, north, east, south and west, three cheers for the west, a shout for the Northern Pacific Railroad, one acclaim for the terminus, the London of Am rica, the great emporium of christendom. Our people!

"May they ever be right,
54 40 or fight."

An arduous task is bef re us, but knowing that we are free again we become encouraged and shall fight it out on the line of independence, truth being our guide."

Here's the way the Star makes its first matrimonial announcement:—

"MARRIED.

SIBLEY—SIMMONS—In Seattle, July 11th 1869, by Rev. D. Bagley, Mr. Seth Wellington Sibley to Miss Mary H. Simmonds.

Well, well well, Bill, Bill [we must call you Bill] Bill, you have acted nobly, may your shadow nevergrow dim, may your—Simmons never taste of bitterness nor cause your lips to pucker or your heart to turn sour. Bill let the light of your countenance and the beauty of your Simmons grace our sanctum at an early day—

When the fatted calf will be slain,
The guests arround invited,
Joy happiness and mirth shall reign,
And our friendship firmly united."

DOWN STILL.—We are still without telegraphic communication. A partial break was found in the cable between Lopez and Fidalgo Islands, but in attempting to get it on board the scow for repairs, it broke entirely. Search is now being made for the two ends. It is difficult to suggest at what time we are likely to enjoy a resumption of telegraphic communication.

LAW SOCIETY.—We are glad to notice that the Bar and Attornies have at last been roused up to combine for the common good. They have formed a Law Society, which was set on foot by Mr. Jackson, and, after deliberation of all the members of the Legal profession on the Island, was duly organized. The Society elected the following officers on Thursday last:—Mr. Ring, President; Mr. Drake, Vice-President; Mr. McCreight, Treasurer.

FROM NEW WESTMINSTER.—The str. Enterprise, Capt. Swanson, arrived from N. W. yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. She brought down only half a dozen passengers, and a lower country mail. No news from the upper country. Fires are raging in the forests along the river.

FROM COMOX AND NANAIMO.—The str. Sir James Douglas, Capt. Clark, arrived from Comax and Nanaimo last evening at 6 o'clock, with 7 passengers and a quantity of skins and produce. The Douglas had carried from Nanaimo to Maple Bay about 40 persons to attend the Methodist Camp Meeting.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.—During the present week our collector will call upon city advertisers, and we beg particularly to request that a second visis will not be rendered necessary.

APPOINTED.—The officer Administering the Government has appointed A. T. Bushby, Esq., to be Returning Officer for the purposes and under the provisions of the New Westminster Municipal Council Act, 1860.

FOR THE SOUND.—The str. W. G. Hunt, Capt. Waitt, sailed for Port Townsend and Olympia yesterday, at 12 o'clock, noon, two hours and a half after her arrival from Nanaimo.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The N. P. T. Co.'s Steamship Moses Taylor, Capt. Matzger, sailed from Esquimalt yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, for San Francisco, direct.

ONE DOLLAR A DOZEN?—Salmon sold yesterday on the Hudson Bay Co.'s wharf at $1 per dozen, as they were landed from the Enterprise.

Dissent a "Spurious Religion!"

(From the London Despatch.)

How much our modern apostles differ from the ancient ones! The founders of Christianity knew nothing of its necessary dependence on State support. They found that it could exist and progress without any knowledge of national endowments. Truth was not founded on the rock of cash. It managed to maintain and propagate itself by its own power and the holy zeal with which it inspired its voluntary ministers. But we are in the nineteenth century, not in the first or second after Christ. From the debate of Monday, we learn on the highest authority how weak spiritual faith is in our day. Christianity, or rather the Church of England variety of it, can, it seems, only go upon crutches. It must have its supports of this world lent to it by this world's rulers, or woe unto it. Truth to-day must confess that it has lost its early reliance upon God and itself alone. To be sure other shades of the Divine faith do manage not only to get along in our days, but even to show considerable vital power and undying vigour; but, then, these are only the unorthodox beliefs, not the Church doctrines stamped for national circulation with the State mark. The new Archbishop of Canterbury, better known as formerly the active and estimable Bishop of London, in his place in the House of Lords on Monday night showed to us clearly and unmistakeably how difficult it is even for the most tolerant of Churchmen to be Christian in discussing such a Bill as that which the people of England have just sent up to the Upper House. Touch the shop interests of the Church and even such a prelate as now so worthily heads it finds himself powerless to speak of all other sects save his own, but with undisguised contempt. Endowed Church and State Christianity is the one thing needful in the eyes of Canterbury. Why? Let us "read mark, learn and inwardly digest," the archiepiscopal wisdom with which the peoples of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales have been just favoured. Church of Irelandism and Church of Englandism are not maintained by the free-will offerings of those who belong to their associations. Therefore all without their pale can be spoken of but with contumely by their highest representative. Hear what disendowed Christianity of all denominations is when this most venerable of ecclesiastical trades unionists comes to define it in his defence of the greatest iniquity of our times, which all leading statesmen, Conservatives, Whig and Radical, Continental, American, and English universally condemn. This is what Dissent is in the opinion of the recognised voice of a Church, the sole ground of the existence of which is that it origionally asserted the right of private judgment, the righteousness of dissent—in other words, the freedom of the human mind, to be Protestant. By the leader of the Bishops' benches in their Lordships' House Nonconformists of all creeds are informed of what all but the one endowment sectarianism is. Mark this, Wesleyans and Baptists, Congregationalists, and all ye unorthodox. Thus says the Archbishop—"I grant there is a sort of religion which does flourish in the absence of endowments. There is a sort of spurious religion which lives on the passions of the people." We think the orator who thus characterised and stigmatised all but the truth as it is in those who are sanctified by State pay, must, if he can be supposed to read novels, have come fresh from the perusal of Mrs. Oliphant's "Salem Chapel," that tale which so feelingly exaggerates the evils which are possible to result from the dependence of a weak newly-elected Dissenting minister, who has not yet secured the reverence and love of his flock. If we might shape the course of the studies of our very reverend appreciator of the blessings of a money independence of the esteem of a congregation we would suggest to him the proving the conclusions he has arrived at, it may be, from fiction by a thoughtful consideration of those which he may gather from fact. Can he find no evils indisputably arising from the spiritual teachers of his Church being made by their mode of appointment and the independence of their incomes too able to set at defiance the Protestantism of their congregations? Does he not know that Ritualism and undisguised Romanism are rampant in pulpits where they could not exist for a week were the conscientious belief of those so disgusted by their ministrations able to free itself from the infliction? Doubtless unendowed spiritual teachers cannot force upon those who pay them to be taught by them, doctrines which their congregations hold to be utterly false and misleading. Doubtless preachers who cannot preach, or cannot preach to the mental satisfaction of those they address, suffer in pocket by their inability to satisfy the religious wants of their congregations. Is this a result to be regretted? We know churches of the sect as by law established afflicted with ministers wholly repugnant to the opinions of those who sit under them. We know of Church of England churches from which those who used to attend them have been given out by the utter mental incompetence or moral unworthiness, the social unpopularity or political intolerance, of the minister, in whose appointment the congregation, of course had no voice, and to dismiss whom it has no competence. An independence of the opinion of churchgoers doubtless is secured by making the choice and maintenance of the spiritual teacher scarcely at all affected by the attachment or dislike of those who attend the service he performs. But we know well that a dependence on voluntaryism would speedily dispossess hundreds of English clergymen of the pulpits which they occupy as a matter of business rather than of fulfilling the ends for which pulpits exist. Were the great body of our Church ministers made to rely for their incomes upon what their congregations freely gave to them, what a breathing of life into dead bones would be seen, what a substitution of living teachers for sleepy and indifferent performers; of vital Protestantism, appealing to the actual thoughts and souls of men, for objectionable forms and unfelt words thrust upon unwilling and disgusted audiences. Archbishop Tait is fronted by unpleasant facts which refute his theories. He knows this, and if all voluntaryism necessarily is "spurious religion," to use his own designation of it, all the Protestantism of Englishmen out of England is that unsound article. Anglo Saxondom throughout the world repudiates his one true system. Australia and New Zealand, Canada, with the whole of the New Dominion, and all the growing nations of the United States, differ with him on this his vital requirements of Christianity. Can he forget how little the United Kingdom itself falls in with his views? Almost all Scotland, almost all Ireland, nearly all Wales and half of England, are the possessors of unendowed Dissent, and consequently, as we may presume in his eyes, of "a sort of spurious religion which lives on the passions of the people." Has he heard that voice from Germany which within the last few weeks answered the summons of the Pope to all erring Protestants to rejoin the one true Catholic fold when the coming Œcumenical Council shall meet? What did the thousand delegates from all shades of Protentanism in the land of Luther declare? Not only that Roman Catholicism was the misleader from Christianity and the great block in the road of the progress and civilisation of mankind, but this, too, that all State Churches were in their nature and constitution opposed to, and destructive of the very spirit of Protestantism. A strange declaration this for Canterbury.
